Examiner's Amendment

1) An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

In claim 26:

line 1 change "(Previously Presented; Allowed)" to --(Previously Presented)--

In claim 27:

line 1 change "(Previously Presented; Allowed)" to --(Previously Presented)--

In claim 28:

line 1 change "(Previously Presented; Allowed)" to --(Previously Presented)--

In claim 29:

line 1 change "(Previously Presented; Allowed)" to --(Previously Presented)--

In claim 30:

line 1 change "(Previously Presented; Allowed)" to --(Previously Presented)--

Change title to:

--TWO-PART, ROOM TEMPERATURE CURABLE EPOXY RESIN / (METH)

ACRYLATE COMPOSITIONS AND PROCESS FOR USING SAME TO BOND

SUBSTRATES--

The changes for claims 26-30 correct an obvious informality (i.e. correct incorrect claim identifiers). See MPEP 1302.04. As to the change the title, see MPEP 606.01.

Reasons for Allowance

- 2) The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance, which supplements applicant's arguments filed 10-18-04:

Although Frankel discloses using a mixture of metal acetylacetones and BF3-amine catalysts in a composition to give a balance of acrylic / epoxy crosslinking and epoxy homopolymerization (col. 12 lines 46-50), the composition is a one part composition having a normal curing temperature of 100 to 250°C instead of being a two-part room- temperature curable composition. Indeed, Frankel comments that the composition may be "...stored at normal room or ambient temperatures for a period of some months without undergoing gelation" (col. 2 lines 6-10).

Although Corley discloses that a two component system may be used (col. 6 lines 25-28) and describes chromium acetylacetone as one of the optional curing accelerators, Corley teaches that the composition is heat curable instead of room temperature curable. Furthermore, Corley fails to teach a two-part room-temperature curable composition in which the second component comprises an epoxy resin harder and a catalyst comprising a transition metal complex and the specified accelerator described at lines 11-14 of claim 1.

As to claims 1-9, 13-15, 18-21 and 23-25, the prior art of record including Leo, Schuft, Frankel and Corley fails to suggests a two-part room-temperature curable composition comprising a second component comprising an epoxy resin harder and a catalyst comprising a transition metal complex and the specified accelerator described at lines 11-14 of claim 1 in combination with a first component comprising an epoxy resin and (meth)acrylate component and the composition having the remaining claimed characteristics.

As to claim 10, the prior art of record including Leo, Schuft, Frankel and Corley fails to suggests a two-part room-temperature curable composition comprising the specified adhesion promoter described between line 12 and seven lines from bottom of claim 10 in combination with a first component comprising an epoxy resin and (meth)acrylate component and a second component comprising an epoxy resin harder and a catalyst comprising a transition metal complex and the composition having the remaining claimed characteristics.

As to claims 11-12 and 26-30, the prior art of record including Leo, Schuft, Frankel and Corley fails to suggests a two-part room-temperature curable composition comprising a second component comprising a polyether amine-based epoxy resin harder and a catalyst comprising a transition metal complex in combination with a first component comprising an epoxy resin and (meth)acrylate component and the composition having the remaining claimed characteristics.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
